Du Verre Hardware is happy to announce its ongoing sponsorship of BlogTour, the exciting new social media force bringing good design to you through the power of social media.

This time, Veronika Miller of Modenus.com has assembled a stellar group of bloggers and design professionals to explore and comment on new trends and products on view at the prestigious IMM International Furniture exhibition in Cologne, Germany. The show runs between January 14 and 20, 2013.

The fair includes Living Kitchen, which highlights the best in kitchen products. This is the premiere international showcase for the ideas and innovations of key players at the top of this incredible industry. Firms like Miele, whose products we adore will be exhibiting there. Miele is also a BlogTour Sponsor.

The Living Interiors section of the show does the same thing for the bath, flooring, wall covering and lighting. A feast for design lovers!

For a few short days, this group of talented bloggers will be your eyes and ears about what is happening on the international design scene. Follow their progress through Twitter #BlogTourCGN and be alerted to the latest trends.

We believe that social media has an exciting role to play in connecting our intense and diverse industry. Modenus and BlogTour are paving the way.

Du Verre is a leader in quality and original design for contemporary hardware. We manufacture environmentally friendly recycled aluminum hardware created by an award winning roster of accomplished designers and are specified by the best in our industry.
